12 Tips For Christian Couples Who Want A Happy Marriage – Part 2

6. Final surrender decisions like divorce and bankruptcy seldom, if ever, make the people who opt for them happier.

Years of counselling have confirmed this. They usually only lead to bitterness and more of the same problems that caused the original divorce or bankruptcy. Your best option is ALWAYS to fix the problems that are pressing you towards divorce and bankruptcy!

7. Few things in life will be as valuable to your marriage.

Including belonging to a strong, biblical church and having a pastor and elders who preach and teach the word and know you and are very concerned for your spiritual growth. Also, you will usually find that it is in church that you find the friends who can do you and your family the most good, so NEVER move to a community where you won't find a good church. It's never worth it. Remember, the strongest church in the world will only be valuable to you in direct proportion to the amount of time you spend in it!

3. Make sure you are doing family worship (devotions) together every day.

Try to attach it to another thing you do habitually like eating. All you really have to do is read the bible, or devotional material based on the bible and pray together. Get your kids used to this habit. They learn both the importance and manner of worshiping God in the home from their parents, not at church.

8. Remember that the only real impediment to having a happy marriage is the condition of your heart!

The poorest Christians, in the worst of worldly circumstances, can have a happy marriage if their hearts are fixed on Christ and they are both living for and serving one another as an act of devotion to their Saviour. On the other hand, the richest people in the world will inevitably have a miserable marriage if they are both living for and serving themselves and expect their spouse to serve them as well.

God Bless

The Devil's Door

Have your Bible handy and have fun!

Isaiah 5:13 Therefore my people are gone into captivity, because they have no knowledge: and their honourable men are famished, and their multitude dried up with thirst.

Under divine law, satan is restricted to the Realm of Darkness unless someone gives him _____. Opening this door gives the devil _____, resulting in theft, destruction, bondage and death.

READ:

John 10:10; 2 Corinthians 2:11

What is the door that opens a life to the influence of satan? It's _____ or disobedience against God's authority.

There are two kinds of disobedience:

- Adam disobeyed _____
- Eve disobeyed when she was _____

READ:

Romans 5:19; 2 Corinthians 11:3; 1 Timothy 2:14; Matthew 24:24

How did the devil deceive Eve? He distorted God's protective command into a _____ of something good.

Greater _____ doesn't indicate disobedience!

READ:

1 Samuel 15:22-23

Rebellion gives satan a _____ to enter your life and
SATAN IS A LEGALIST!

READ:

2 Peter 2:19; Matthew 24:12

Every place you find rebellion, you will find that the Word of God is viewed as too _____.

The only cure for rebellion is _____!

READ:

John 14:15; James 4:7
